

1.4 Vocabulary

Word	Definition	Synonym	Antonym
trend (noun)	the general direction in which something tends to move; current style	craze, fad sensation, or style
accurate (adj)	without error, factual, correct and exact	precise authentic	inaccurate wrong similar (adj)	the same, but not identical	allied comparable correlative homogeneous	different dissimilar opposite unlike motive (noun)	emotion, desire, or need that compels one to take a certain action	purpose Impulse incentive	deterrent discouragement hindrance
perceive (verb)	to become aware of something through one of the senses; to understand	be aware, behold, discover realize	neglect overlook perspective (noun)	a certain point of view; a subjective view of a particular issue	angle, aspect attitude rely (verb)	to be dependent on for help or support; to have confidence in	await count on depend	distrust doubt
focus (noun)	any center of interest or activity	focal point imply (verb)	to express indirectly (hint)	give a hint mention	define express conclude (verb)	to reach a decision; come to an end	achieve cinch close	begin introduce commence

She follows all the latest trends in fashion.

His story was very accurate and no details were left out.

Though Mary and Tom are twins, they don't like very similar.

She is acting from some selfish motive when she stole her best friend's boyfriend.

Sometimes I am so concerned about how others perceive me that I do not always listen to my own voice.

The drunk man told his perspective of the story to the policeman, but he already heard all the excuses.

The student relied on the boy to help her to class since she was on crutches.

The focus of the contagious disease class was on learning about the causes of ebola.

The teacher implied that we were having a test by saying, "Now, class you need to know this for tomorrow."

After the play concluded, everyone clapped for the cast did a perfect performance.